PRAISE FOR GLENDALE

JEANNETTE, PA., EDITORS FIND CITY UP-TO-DATE AND ATTRACTIVE

When the National Editorial Association met in Los Angeles, toward the end of June, the Jeannette members of the association remembered that they had a family from their own city in Glendale and set out to visit them. The family was that of J. W. Fairchild, 433 S. Maryland. The following extract from an article in the Jeannette Disaptch tells how much delighted the editorial visitors were with what they saw in Glendale:

"For a memorable day of sightseeing in the country round about Los Angeles, Jeannette members of the National Editorial Association party are deeply indebted to our former townsman, J. W. Fairchild, who is now a resident of Glendale, Cal. A call at the home of Mr. Fairchild and his family was arranged by telephone, the morning of June 24. The sky was overclouded and the air "felt like rain." We were assured, however that there was absolutely no need of raincoats or umbrella that day or any other during our short stay in California, and that those protections against the elements were habitually lost, pawned or put in cold storage from March until the next December by Los Angeles people. Thus assured—but doubting somewhat—we boarded a Pacific Electric car for the ride to Glendale, nine miles distant.

"Glendale is situated in a beautiful valley on the eastern bank of the Los Angeles river, and we found it quite a busy little city, very up-to-date, with wide, paved streets, well lighted and long avenues of beautiful homes. A new school building, just near the home of Mr. Fairchild, was a very handsome structure, and would do credit to one of our large eastern cities.

"The Fairchilds occupy a pretty bungalow on a residence street near the business center. When we arrived Mrs. Fairchild was busy packing her trunk, preparatory to starting on a journey to visit eastern relatives. Her trip was delayed, however, on account of illness, and a recent communication gives September 2 as the date of her departure for the East.

"The daughter, Ruth, has grown to be an attractive, dignified young woman, and Stephen is now a boy of 12 years, sun-browned as any native son of California. The entire family seems happy and contented in the land of their adoption. It was about 11:30 when Mr. Fairchild loaded us into his car, "for a little sightseeing trip around the country." It was 6:30 when we again reached Glendale, and we had been traveling at a good speed during nearly all the intervening hours, covering perhaps 125 miles over roads, the finest any motor enthusiast could ever wish for, through a varied scenery of mountains and canyons and wide acres of level lands, producing oranges, lemons, grapefruit, olives, walnuts, apricots, peaches, grapes, sugar beets and many golden fields from which the grain had been cut, looking not greatly unlike those of Pennsylvania."

The editorial visitors conclude their long and interesting description of Glendale and its vicinity with the admission that "there are things about California which stagger the imagination."

STOLEN WHEEL FOR BAIL

Officer Hollenbeck found a Mexican, who gave his name as Jerm de Joun, lying in a state of intoxication, last week, at the corner of Pacific avenue and Colorado boulevard. When brought to the police headquarters the Mexican was found to be in possession of a bunch of keys and 12 cents and a bicycle. When sober enough to make a statement, De Joun was arraigned before Judge Whomes and put up his bicycle for bail. He was then released, being bound to appear for sentence Saturday. After he had been released it occurred to Officer Laurence to examine the bicycle. A great number of wheels are stolen from time to time and the description of these wheels are posted in all the police headquarters of the State. Laurence found among the records the description of this particular wheel as having been stolen in Los Angeles. He immediately went out and re-arrested De Joun, who stated that he had bought the bicycle from another Mexican in Los Angeles, giving him his old wheel and $10 in cash. This story is contradicted by still another Mexican, who states that De Joun told him he had had his own wheel stolen in Los Angeles and to get even had stolen this one. The stories are being investigated.

CHRISTIAN CHURCH

The return of the pastor to the pulpit of this church on Sunday marked the opening of the fall campaign. He appeared to be in good health as the result of his vacation of a month.

The morning sermon, as had been announced was on "A Dead Church," as illustrated by the church at Sardis in Rev. 3. The conclusion was drawn that the church may be alive and aggressive and an individual member of it spiritually dead, or vice versa.

The topic in the evening was that well-beloved 13th chapter of 1st Corinthians on the three great Christian graces—faith, hope and love. The music at this service was unusually fine, a duet by Mrs. Orth and Mrs. Pigg and a solo by Mrs. Cole being very much enjoyed. The latter is a new comer to Glendale from the Naomi avenue church in Los Angeles, and at the close of the service she and her husband made everyone present rejoice by placing their membership with this congregation.

The final picnic of the year was held in Griffith Park yesterday by the Bible school and all who attended reported an enjoyable day.

Next Sunday is called "Home-Coming Day" among the Bible schools of the Disciples, and is expected to mark the return to the work of the church by all vacationists. It is really the beginning of active work and all who are interested in the cause are urged to push for a large attendance.

The prayer meeting topic for tomorrow evening is one in which all are interested, viz.: "The state of our church—what we need most." Come to this service, to get and give the spiritual life which you need.

The C. W. B. M. will have its regular meeting Thursday afternoon at 2:30 in the parlors of the church.

LOSE HOME BY FIRE

Fire broke out in the residence of J. A. Andrews, 439 East Sixth street, Friday at 4:50 a. m. and was subdued after a fierce fight on the part of the fire department, only after damage had been done to the extent of $1000. The house was a one and a half story affair. It is believed that as some lard was being rendered on the stove the fat caught fire and speedily got beyond the power of the residents to extinguish it. The children were got out with difficulty and all the furniture and wearing apparel was destroyed. Fireman Schroeder drove the truck. Fire Chief Lankford, Firemen Potter, Eves, Fellows, Kiefer and Olivas were present. Patrolmen Hollenbeck and Arrington also assisted.

Berkeley police are to study psychology, to enable them to "size up" prisoners and classify them. The policeman's most effective equipment, however, in dealing with most of those arrested is, a strong physique and a healthy club.

The dead now number 26, including 13 sailors. The admiralty denied today that the Hesperian was an auxiliary cruiser or had been employed in any way by the government.

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)

BERLIN, Sept. 7.—It was announced by the admiralty here today that the German submarine U 27 had been destroyed by the British. It appears that the undersea boat had been cruising among the Hebrides Islands on the west coast of Scotland and discovered a small British cruiser entirely unaware of its presence. Creeping up the submarine sent the cruiser to the bottom. The destruction of the small cruiser aroused the British, one of whose destroyers caught sight of the submarine and promptly smashed it.

BUYS WHITE STORE

O. J. FURST AND SONS ASSUME MANAGEMENT OF OLD ESTABLISHED GROCERY BUSINESS

One of the best-known grocery stores in Glendale changed hands this week when C. D. Furst and T. M. Furst bought the interest of Dr. H. C. West in the White Store. The actual purchasers of the store are O. J. Furst, M. D., and his two sons. The sons have assumed active charge of the business. Dr. Furst has an excellent medical practice in Los Angeles and will remain there while his sons run the store.

The Furst brothers are well and favorably known in the city and are certain to make a success of their undertaking. Their affability and business acquaintance should give them a wide clientele.

Dr. O. J. Furst came to Los Angeles from Peabody, Kas., about five years ago. He had a large and lucrative practice in Peabody, which he says is a city of considerable importance, not from its size, as it has only 1500 inhabitants, but from the fact that the per capita wealth of that little city was equal to the highest per capita wealth of any other city in the United States. The center of a large agricultural district, where hogs, cattle, corn and alfalfa are swelling the already plethoric purses of the people, Peabody has two banks to care for this wealth.

"Within the little radius of Glendale and Los Angeles I know of more than 100 people who have come from Peabody within the past five years," said Dr. Furst today. "All of those people have made money in Kansas and naturally have come to this Garden of the Gods to enjoy it. I love California and am specially delighted with Glendale."

CHIEF'S FATHER DEAD

Attorney Frank Herald, father of Chief of Police Herald, for twelve years a prominent member of the Los Angeles bar, died suddenly Friday. He was stricken in Justice Forbes' court immediately after the judge had decided a case in favor of his client. The stricken attorney was conveyed by ambulance to the Angelus Hospital, where he died shortly after. His wife and his son, the chief of police, were with him till the end. Attorney Herald came to Los Angeles twelve years ago from Oakland. He had also been a practicing attorney in Topeka, Kas., where he was law partner of Gen. H. A. Pierce, who was at one time on Gen. Grant's staff. The cause of the death was heart trouble.

As testimony to the popularity of the deceased attorney the funeral parlors at Sutch's establishment, 19th and Figueroa streets, were crowded Sunday by the many friends of the Herald family. The crowd was so large that the parlors could not contain them all and part of the crowd waited outside. Several of the judges of the various courts were present. The members of the Bar Association were also there. The association sent a large, handsome floral wreath as a tribute to the deceased. There were also many other wreaths and floral pieces. The casket was buried in flowers and the chapel was filled with a profusion of floral beauty.

From the parlors where the funeral service was read by the Rev. J. A. Wood of South Main street Methodist-Episcopal church, the imposing funeral cortege, consisting of a long train of coaches and autos, proceeded to Inglewood cemetery, where the interment took place in the Mausoleum. At the cemetery the Knights of Pythias had charge of the ceremonies. The deceased was a graduate of Ann Arbor, Michigan, and last year was vice-president of the Ann Arbor, Mich., Alumni Society. The deceased attorney was also a prominent member of the Knights of Pythias, the Fraternal Brotherhood and the University club.

AT PYTHIAN PICNIC

MORE THAN 3000 PICNICKERS ENJOY PLEASANT OUTING AT VERDUGO PARK

To the sound of the soul-stirring music of the brass band, more than 3000 members of the Knights of Pythias and their friends assembled in Verdugo Park, Monday, and enjoyed a most pleasant outing. George C. Barlow of San Pedro lodge was in charge and was ably assisted by Bert P. Woodard and Fred Deal of Miradero lodge, No. 96, as well as by three members from each of the other lodges sending delegates. The Silver lodge band of Los Angeles policemen furnished the music of the day and George Hindale's orchestra supplied the music for the dancing.

Everything went off as arranged without a hitch. There were no accidents and no disturbance of any kind. It is an excellent testimony to the high character the Knights of Pythias have always borne that there should not have been even the smallest difference of opinion throughout the day. The utmost harmony and genuine brotherhood feeling prevailed.

Tugs-of-war, foot races, sack races, obstacle races, slow races, fat and thin races for men and women, baseball, competitive drills and many other contests made the time pass enjoyably. The crack Fullerton tug-of-war team was beaten by the Silver Star lodge of policemen, to the astonishment of everyone. The score was 14 to 4. The Glendale Elks White Patrol team gave an exhibition drill and was presented with a beautiful bronze plaque mounted with an elk's head and a clock. San Diego, No. 6, Uniform Rank, won the prize for a contest drill.

Hastings Bidwell of Glendale won the hill-climbing contest. Mrs. Manby of Glendale won the nail-driving contest. In every possible way the gathering was a success. The visitors were charmed with the park; its running stream; its handsome live oaks and other trees and with all the excellent arrangements that worked so smoothly all day.

In every possible way the picnic was a great matter for Glendale. It has advertised the city in a manner better than any other kind of advertising could have done. From morning to night the happy crowds did not cease to express their pleasure and to assure their hosts that they would come back again. As the evening closed the police band from Los Angeles passed through the town and played a parting serenade, concluding with "Auld Lang Syne." The officials who engineered the affair are delighted with its success.

SOME OF AMERICA'S WAR WORK

While the nations have been slaughtering each other as though there were an unlimited supply of male humanity between the ages of 20 and 40, America has been doing its best to save life. When the red trail of war left behind it in Servia the devastating plague of typhus and the medical resources and knowledge of that kingdom were not enough to handle it, resort was had to the United States. In answer to the appeal of Servia Richard P. Strong, professor of tropical diseases in the university of Harvard, went to their assistance.

The epidemic had reached its height in the middle of April. It was probably the greatest epidemic of typhus in modern history and the way in which Dr. Strong and his assistants handled and stamped it out shows what might have been done with the great plagues which devastated the world since their history was first recorded by Thucydides. There were about 8500 cases daily in the military hospitals. Probably there were a great many more. The total deaths were about 100,000.

When Dr. Strong took charge of the country there were probably about 100,000 cases in the hospitals. This was so unusual that it might well have daunted a less courageous man than the American doctor. He, however, was made of the right material. He tackled the worst medical problem of the age and speedily infused strength and hope and faith in the hearts of those who had been ready to lie down and die.

It is interesting to read the story of the fight against the plague. Dr. Strong organized a national sanitary board and went after the practical end of the work. It is well known now that typhus is propagated by a louse that carries the infection and communicates it by means of its bite. The terrible jail fever which swept away so many lives in days past and sometimes attacked even the lawyers and judges on the bench who acquired it from the parasites brought into court by the prisoners, was this self-same typhus, the ravages of which were speedily curtailed by the sanitary measures of the American doctor.

With two refrigerator cars at their disposal the Americans installed an apparatus for disinfecting clothing by heavy steam pressure and dried it immediately afterward. In the second car was disinfecting apparatus for giving the victims baths.

Arrived in a town the population would be unclothed; their clothing disinfected and dried and they themselves put through the disinfecting bath. This lasted ten minutes. At the end of that time they were given back their clothing with the absolute assurance that the deadly parasites were dead. Five hundred cases a day was the speed at which this work was done. When railway communication failed the country districts were visited in military automobiles or carriages. Fifty-three bathing plants were established as a permanent national equipment. Then the plague was stayed.

There could be no greater instance of the truth of the adage, "God helps those who help themselves." Throughout their labors the Americans were helped by Sir Thomas Lipton, who has been laboring among the Servians with great devotion. It will be a long time before Servia forgets the aid lent it by the American doctors who have demonstrated that peace has its victories as well as war. "One touch of nature makes the whole world kin."

PERNICIOUS FOREIGN INTERFERENCE

No rule of diplomatic conduct is more distinctly defined or better known than that which forbids the representative of a foreign country to interfere with the business of the nation to which he is accredited. Such pernicious activity has invariably brought about the request for the recall of the offending ambassador or minister. The United States as a republic has always been particularly jealous of the interference of foreign representatives with its internal political questions, and has not hesitated to signify that resentment in unmistakable terms.

It is therefore hardly conceivable that the conduct of Dr. Constantine T. Dumba, Austro-Hungarian ambassador, who has been writing letters to his home government explaining his plan for tieing up American industry and paralysing the manufacture of munitions in this country will be allowed to escape. That any ambassador of a country with which this republic is on friendly terms should venture to write a letter of such a nature; and being conscious of its flagrant violation of all ambassadorial good faith, have it conveyed out of the country secretly by a secret agent, is so flagrant a breach of all ministerial etiquette that one wonders not so much at the obliquity of mental vision that could induce such conduct as at the crass misunderstanding of the obligations and nature of the ambassadorial office that has led the Austrian representative to atempt to defend it.

That a proposal "to disorganize and hold up for months, if not entirely prevent the manufacture of munitions in Bethlehem and the Middle West" should have emanated from the representative of Austria, with, as he states, the approval of the German military attache, makes manifest an absolute abandonment of the principles of correct ambassadorial conduct that is an amazing revelation.

It will not be forgotten how the United States has dealt in the past with offenses of this nature. In the case of the British ambassador, Lord Sackville-West, who was trapped into making a comment on the presidential election, there was no hesitation. He was recalled. Senor Du Puy De Lome, the Spanish ambassador, at the time of the Spanish-American war, for uncalled-for comment on the situation, was as promptly handed his papers. Even Wu Ting Fang, the clever and genial Chinese, by the excess of verbosity, induced by the amount of attention paid him all over the country found his ministerial career cut short. There have also been others whose interference with the national business compelled the State Department to rebuke them severely and to have them recalled.

It is practically certain that President Wilson will know how to handle this representative of a foreign country, who, enjoying the hospitality of the freest and greatest republic in the world has offensively violated the rules of his office. President Wilson is a citizen of the United States; Count Dumba is a "subject" of the emperor of Austria. It may conform to the conscience of a "subject" to violate confidence and sacrifice good faith. It is the duty of the citizen to see that his country does not suffer in any respect by the plots and machinations of those who despise the code of honor of a free country.

SOME DEAR MELONS

Deciding a melon-stealing case in a manner worthy of the famous Eastern cadis, Judge Whomes, Saturday, gave a warning to melon thieves that may well bid them pause. In the neighborhood of Verdugo road there are several small ranches where hard-working people are trying to make a living out of their small patches of ground. It is exceedingly annoying, to say the least, that after a season of hard labor, these people should see the fruit of their toil suddenly destroyed or carried away. There can be no excuse for such conduct. It is indefensible. Whether it be grapes that some small property renter is carefully nursing along for his own use or cucumbers or melons or whatever may be the crop, it would be well for grown-up thieves as well as mere boys, who are perhaps acting in partial ignorance, to call a halt on their depredations, as the measure of justice that will be dealt to them hereafter will be the strict stipulation of the law.

In the case of L. E. Jones and his wife, colored people, who are striving to make a living on a small patch of ground off Verdugo road the circumstances are very hard. These honest people had raised a small patch of melons. Last year a band of boys entered the patch and not content with taking part of the melons, which would have been bad enough and criminal also, they plugged and destroyed the whole crop.

This season the same malicious mischief has been perpetrated on the little ranch. Thursday several boys, Frank Camargo, Gilbert Anderson, Dick Royce, Clyde Smith and Al Gilhousen, were arrested, charged with having entered the melon patch and with having destroyed the crop. It appeared from the statement of the Jones that the boys tore the melons up and smashed them, after having eaten what they wanted.

The boys pleaded guilty and Judge Whomes believing that they had committed the offense without understanding its enormity, and desirous of recompensing the owners, ordered the boys to pay $7.50 damages. This has been done. The judge, however, will not likely exercise such leniency with future cases, especially if grown-up parties are found to have been guilty of this kind of theft.

MRS. CHANDLER ENTERTAINS W. C. T. U.

An interesting session of the W. C. T. U. was held Friday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Chandler, 349 West Fifth street.

The devotional exercises were lead by Mrs. H. E. Loveless, superintendent of evangelistic department. The Bible lessons given by Mrs. Loveless are always encouraging, as well as an incentive to W. C. T. U. workers to continue in this great warfare against evil forces.

Mrs. Loveless is also superintendent of "press" work and an unusual address was given touching on the force of the press.

In part was said: In all the inventions or discoveries ever made, the printing press is the greatest force for good or evil. It scatters the news, educates, instructs, amuses, uplifts. But, alas, the forces of evil are using the same power to nullify our teaching and to bring to naught all righteous instruction.

Steam and electricity are great. Steam coupled with whiskey has been the cause of the most terrible disasters on land and sea. We have only to note the accidents published daily in our papers to realize whiskey and gasoline a bad combination. "If a good man dies his deeds are often interred with his bones," as the poet says, while if a drunkard and smoker lives to be ninety or over some magazine will have his picture and tell of the virtues of whiskey and tobacco. The child will read these magazines and look forward to the time when he too can drink and smoke. It is encouraging to learn how many of our best newspapers and magazines will not print whiskey and cigarette advertisements. As Glendale always leads, it leads in this rank as well for clean reading matter. It was urged the home, the church and W. C. T. U. unite into one great force and send written protests to editors of magazines and newspapers who print cigarette and whiskey advertisements.

Mrs. Smart, our beloved president, paid a beautiful tribute to the life of Mrs. Loveless, and recognizes in her an old-time W. C. T. U. worker whose home-going is not far in the distance.

Mrs. Flora Lemon, Y. P. B. secretary, gave a splendid report of the convention held at Santa Ana recently. Rapid strides in temperance work are being made by the young people. Mrs. Lemon was favorably impressed by the consecration service held at the beginning of the convention, and the way that young men and women are consecrating their lives to work for the Master.

Mr. Will Richards, one of Glendale's most prominent young men, was elected state treasurer of the Y. P. B. for the coming year.

It is whispered among the Y. P. B. workers that there is a glorious prospect that the next state convention will be held in Glendale.

Owing to the full program the parliamentary and science of government lessons were postponed until next meeting.

Mrs. Chandler served delightful refreshments. We adjourned to meet at the home of Mrs. L. E. Brown, Sycamore canyon, Sept. 17. An all-day meeting will be held.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR

Sunday, Sept. 5th, topic, Throw yourself into your task, Rom. 12:11. (Consecration meeting.)

Bible Help

Today our opportunity, Eccl. 9:10.
Christ's enthusiasm, John 2:13-17.
Mistaken zeal, 1 Kings 18:21-29.

An enthusiast, Matt. 3:1-6.
The true spirit, Eph. 6:5-8.

Seed Notes

Many ranchmen complain sometimes about the poor crops from ordinary conditions. Instead if they were to put something into the ground, into their labor, the returns would be surprising. But when an attempt is made to squeeze something out of nothing, small will be the result. The old expression holds good here, "You cannot squeeze blood out of a turnip." Just so it is in everything with which we have to do, put something into your labor, into your soil, into your task. Put your head as well as your heart into your task. Zeal must be put into efforts. Long hours and sleepless nights, sometimes mid-night oil, are necessary to reach definite results. Edison sometimes spends 30 or 40 hours upon a single thought in connection with some invention. Bodily fatigue has no claims above zeal and energy when something important comes before us.

To be fervent in spirit means, "boiling in spirit," to have an overflowing energy and a zeal and knowledge that will not down. To consider that the most menial labor is of importance, and a digging at it with ardor and determination, will soon bring results. For though at first we may not like our task, yet a forced liking will very soon become a real one.

An active spirit and energy will make an active life, and such will find a way or make one regardless of hindrances.

God's great work requires enthusiasm and energy just as well as material things to make them successful and worth while. His interests require both heart and head work, yea, the feelings too. He calls us to contribute our best today that it might be still better tomorrow. Spiritual powers and zeal grow by exercise. When we think there is nothing further on in the Christian life, we had better not begin, perhaps. Low is the zeal, cool the fervor that fails to catch the great wave of enthusiasm that comes from God's Spirit. Close to Him daily will make you to grow more and more to regard the work in your hands as from Him, and His work for you of great importance.

The great rewards for faithful labor here are a hundred fold and hereafter life eternal. Who wouldn't just lay oneself out for God and truth and the entire cause of truth maintain? Who would not pray God to keep the enthusiasm for His work fresh in his soul?

BURBANK

E. S. Hogle had a very pleasant surprise last week when one of the chums of his younger days dropped in on him for a couple of days' visit. The visitor in question was S. K. Spendlove of Geneva, New York, and the two friends enjoyed themselves immensely. Mr. Spendlove is in the U. S. postal department at Geneva, where he has held a position for the past twenty-five years.

Walter Burt has gone to Baldwin Park, where he will make a two weeks' visit with his father, who has employment there.

Burbank was well represented at the K. of P. picnic at Verdugo Park, Glendale, on Labor Day.

Mr. and Mrs. Rhodes left Monday for San Diego and the fair.

Tom Hawkins returned Sunday and is swinging the sledge as merrily as ever at the busy Olson blacksmith shop. Tom tells us he had the time of his life on his recent trip. He went by boat to Frisco and viewed the big fair, then took the train through Northern California to Portland and then on to Seattle and returned by boat, and had a genuine good time.

Mrs. O. Johnson, Mrs. Charnot and Miss Byfield of Los Angeles were Sunday guests at the home of Mrs. L. G. Glenn and family.

Miss Mary Douglas visited friends in Burbank last week. Miss Douglas was one of our popular grammar school teachers last year, but takes a position in the Azuza schools this year.

Don't forget the weekly dances, every Saturday night at Horne's hall. A big electric fan to keep you cool, and good orchestra music to keep your feet moving.

Brick work on the Flower block is completed, and the attractive front is receiving much favorable comment. The roof will be on by the last of the week. Mr. Flower tells us that several prospective tenants are already looking the building over. It is an extra good location, on a main business corner and will always be shady and cool in summer.

Mrs. Ben Ludlow and her parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. Dufur, left Monday for a week or ten days' sojourn at Ocean Park.

Mr. and Mrs. L. I. Mulvey spent the week's end, including Labor day, at Catalina Island.

Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Sommers, Mrs. Bicken and A. D. Ackerley accompanied E. B. Fowler on his weekly visit to Hueneme Beach last Sunday and report a most delightful day and trip.

R. O. Church, E. H. Thompson, Chas. and Ed. Fischer, J. T. Shelton and Ben Trout made up a party which left last Saturday night for the country above Calabasas, where they expected to spend Labor Day dove shooting.

Chas. Hamawalt and Walter E. Shelley left for Acton, Saturday, where they expect to spend a week. The main object of their trip was to take advantage of the dove season.

The L. W. garage delivered a fine five-passenger Overland auto to Mr. Comber last Saturday.

A. P. Brumbaugh and wife are the proud parents of a ten and one-half pound boy, who arrived at their home on Palm avenue last Thursday, Sept. 2. Mother and son are doing nicely, while A. P. is rapidly getting back to his normal stride at the Lane grocery. This is the third child in the Brumbaugh family, first a boy, then a girl and now the heavyweight arrival is the cause of much appropriate rejoicing.

Mrs. Alice R. Butterly was up from Glendale Saturday to see how the new proprietor of the restaurant was getting along. It is quite probable that Mrs. Butterly will be a Burbank visitor quite frequently.

J. C. Thompson of Central avenue left last Friday to visit old home places and people in Indiana and Illinois. He will be gone several weeks.

School begins next Monday. Parents are glad, while some of the kids are sad, but the work and play will soon bring things back to the regular routine, and everybody, that is most everybody, will be satisfied.

There was about the usual crowd of fans out to witness the ball game Saturday, which was between a pick-up team, designated as Boyntons of Los Angeles and the Burbank boys, who were helped out by the various neighboring cities. It was a good game, with several close plays, but we will let our regular baseball reporter describe in his own entertaining way.

Saturday's Ball Game

Burbank held a mixed double quartet Saturday and pulled off the seeming impossible stunt of winning in the song-fest, 5 to 2, from the L. A. grammar school.

We had men from Tropico, Glendale, cast-offs from Venice, the Angels, Honolulu, one from Australia, and even Watts contributed a pair, but under the baton of heavyweight Linn of the home-guard they played nine innings of good ball.

While the players all pounded the pill hard, there was but few safe hits made as the defense was strong.

Both Gabbage and Bidwell playing with Burbank did good solo work in the field, Bidwell squelching a batting rally with a long run for a hard chance and diminutive Gabbage being there with the ash. Ott on second got by with a series of arias of high degree by accepting some difficult chances. Pitcher Phelps stopped two concerted rallys that were mighty close to the finale when he took charge.
